Grammar School Graduation

Nineteen Boys and Girls Finish Work of the Eighth Grade and Receive Diplomas

The graduation exercises of the past ten days were unusually interesting and attracted large crowds. No community similarly situated has better schools nor do the people take a greater interest in the education of its young people.

On Thursday evening of last week the eight grade graduated a class of nineteen, who were C. Erwin Righter, C. Fay Billings, Cecil G. Kennedy, Myrtle L. Dunham, Leland L. Brown, Gladys L. Bryan, Leland G. Lancaster, Bernice M. Lloyd, Asa P. Harris, Ira D. Harris, Lucila M. Thompson, Bliss H. Forbes, Nanette T. Ellison, James Fablinger, Elva Pope, Andrew A. Huntley, Catherine R. Cooper, Loyal Lancaster and Winnie M. Bibb.

The exercises were held in the High School Assembly hall. Miss Fern Drundage played a march while the members of the class took their places on the platform. The faculty, the board of trustees, County Superintendent D. T. Bateman and the Rev. C. E. Irons of San Francisco also occupied seats on the platform. On the wall back of the group was the class motto, "Bound to Succeed," displayed in the class colors, gold letters over a blue background.

The president of the class, Cecil Kennedy, made a fine little speech. He is one of the five who have been with the class the entire eight years. The address was delivered by Mr. Irons, who followed the thought of the class motto, "Bound to Succeed." He told the class that if they would make a success of life they should write these words of Paul just under their motto: "This one thing I do." (Phil. 3:13). He mentioned some of the difficulties that would beset them in the way; and withal gave them a splendid, practical address which, if remembered, would enable any of them to succeed in life. Miss Bernice Lloyd's Class History was well written and could be plainly heard by all in the house.

The declamation by Gladys Bean was a happy selection and delivered in a pleasing manner. The Class Prophecy by Erwin Righter and the Class Will written by Fay Billings and read by Myrtle Dunham both appear entire on the fourth page of this issue of the Press. The original work of the pupils of this class was done in such a splendid manner that we have decided to publish all of it. The Class History and Alphabet will appear next week, and the others just as soon as our space will permit. The Horoscope by Lucila Thompson created much amusement. Catherine Cooper read an interesting essay on the California Poppy. In the class song, "Goodbye, Goodbye, School Days Are Over," the girls' voices rang out clear and strong but the boys were more ornamental than useful, only one or two singing. The piano solos by Fay Billings, Elva Pope and Leland Brown were each good selections and well rendered.

D. T. Bateman, County Superintendent of Schools, spoke on the changes in the school laws made by the last Legislature. We regret that space will not permit of a discussion of these laws which are of such vital interest to all of us. Mr. Bateman is the right man in the right place, and he also has a big place in the hearts of the pupils and parents as well. His pleasing personality and happy manner of expression always make his addresses interesting. Leland Lancaster read a very practical paper on "Sanitation."

Mr. Chas. Berry, president of the Board of Trustees, was called upon and made some remarks about the additional equipment, land and playgrounds, and also stated that the average attendance for the past year had enabled them to employ an additional teacher for the coming year.

Professor J. H. Graves presented each member of the class with a handsome diploma. When Cecil Kennedy came forward to receive his he in turn, with a pleasing little speech, gave Mr. Graves a handsome fountain pen, a token of remembrance from the class.

A GOOD PLACE TO TRADE

The Boy and the Bank

One Dollar Will Start an Account

The first twenty-one years of one's life are spent in preparation for the future, and the habits and thoughts that are infused into a person during those twenty-one years will have the greatest influence on the following years of his life.

The boy should be taught to save and put his money in the bank. It is not discouraging to the boy to try to start a bank account when at our bank a dollar will start an account. A dollar is something to the boy, more than it is to the grown ups, and it may seem a little bit hard for him to save. But urge him to try it, and encourage him by giving him odd jobs to do, or giving him a little money now and then. Test the boy. See if he will not learn to save after urging. Point out to him the advantages of having money in the bank.

Get one of our Pocket Banks for the Small Change and Start the Account now at the Beginning of the Fall Year, and Commencement of the Fruit Season.

SUMMARY OF PAST WEEK'S COAST NEWS

Interesting Events Among Our Neighbors in the Far West Reviewed.

What Has Transpired on the Border of the Broad Pacific From Alaska to Mexico.

Pomona.—Fire completely destroyed The Tavern, one of Pomona's leading hostelries. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

Sacramento.—Governor Johnson denied the application for executive clemency for Juan Magana. He was hanged Friday for murder in Tulare county.

Pendleton, Or.—Henry Picard was instantly killed and his son, Henry Picard Jr., severely injured by a bolt of lightning which struck the tent in which they were sleeping.

Los Angeles.—Horace W. Chase, owner of the Hotel Nadeau and other valuable properties, clubman, Shriner and philanthropist, whose hand was ever-ready to extend help, is dead after a long illness.

Redwood City.—Jack Tuite, son of a San Francisco policeman, who was arrested here while driving an auto truck on the county road when in an intoxicated condition, was fined $30 in the Justice court.

Spokane.—By unanimous vote the Masonic Grand Lodge of Washington has decided to locate the Masonic home for aged members and widows and orphans at Payullup, where a $15,000 site overlooking the sound has been donated.

Fortuna.—A fire in the Fortuna bakery, over which are the rooms of the Fortuna club, destroyed a large portion of the business section of the town, causing a loss of about $30,000.
All of the buildings burned were of wood, and the flames were not gotten under control until afternoon.

Sacramento.—There will be no Governor's staff during Hiram W. Johnson's administration. All the members of former Governor Gillett's staff have sent in their resignations, but Johnson announces that the vacancies will not be filled. "This administration will be devoted solely to business," says Johnson.

Spokane.—William Byrd, the triple murderer, was captured in the foothills near Mica peak after a man hunt lasting over three days. Byrd came to a farmer's home to ask for breakfast, leaving his rifle outside the house.
Deputies, who were on watch, quietly secured the rifle, then stole up to the farmhouse and covered Byrd with their guns. He surrendered without resistance.

Bakersfield.—Born November 1, 1788, Mrs. Mary Rodriguez died here at the age of 123 years seven months and 11 days. She was a native of Mexico and reared a large family which spread to all parts of the State. A fall in which she sustained a fracture of a hip bone compelled her to spend the last five months of her life in bed, but therefore she had hardly known a sick day.

Whittier.—The skeleton of a man found by forest rangers on the banks of Castle Creek, near Newhall, is believed to be that of Jefferson Wells, a lineman of Tulare, who has been missing since last February. At the time of his disappearance Wells was engaged in line work along the banks of the creek, and it is believed that he lost his life in the floods that prevailed last February.

San Francisco.—All arrangements are completed for the great "Bible parade," Friday afternoon, June 23, when 15,000 or more men will pass in parade through the downtown streets.
At the conclusion of the demonstration the Bibles will be stacked upon the platform at the Coliseum, and then they will be distributed among the hotels of San Francisco, so that every guest room may have its Bible.

Weaverville.—Thomas Hayden was convicted of murder in the second degree after the jury, which stood five for acquittal to seven for a verdict of guilty on the first ballot, had deliberated for ten hours. During an altercation over a stock range, December 21st, Hayden shot and killed Morris Norgard and wounded his brother, Cervera Norgard, in the arm. The trouble occurred near the Mendocino county line.

POSTAL DEPOSITARIES IN WEST BETTER PATRONIZED

Bisbee and Tonapah Lead All Offices Opened at Beginning; May First.

Washington.—Postal savings deposi-taries in the Far West are being better patronized than those in the other parts of the country, announces Postmaster General Hitchcock. Of the postal savings banks opened May 1st, Bisbee, Ariz., and Tonapah, Nev., led in the amount of deposits the first month, with $11,800 and $10,300, respectively. The first 93 offices established received $126,000 the first month, and on May 31st had on deposit $400,000.

There will be in operation July 13th 650 postal savings offices, 100 additional offices having just been named, 50 to be opened July 10th and 50 July 13th.
Among the new depositaries are the following

Turlock, Chico, Salinas, Corona, Grass Valley, San Luis Obispo, Hollister, Sonoma, Tulare, Marysville, Merced, Modesto, Anaheim, Pacific Grove, Sausalito, Gilroy, Lodi, San Pedro, Napa, San Rafael and Vallejo, Cal.; Sand Point, Idaho; Glendive, Mont.; Albany, Or.; Sedro-Wooley, Wash.

Excavators Uncover Cornor Stone.

San Jose.—In excavating for a drip for the gas company in the streets of Santa Clara, workmen unearthed the cornerstone laid by the Franciscan padres for the second Santa Clara mission.

The stone was 15½ inches long, 12½ wide and 7½ deep, with smooth finished faces. In a hole in the center, wrapped in silk, were several coins, a crucifix and two medallions. Three of the coins are dated 1778 and inscribed "Carolus III de Gratia 1778."

Three smaller Spanish pieces bear dates of 1768, 1769 and 1770.

Dr. Osborne of the Santa Clara Historical Society is satisfied that the discovery confirms previous investigations fixing the site of the old mission.
It was destroyed by earthquakes in 1812 and 1818. In rebuilding the site of the present location was chosen.

Cannot Check Japan's Expansion.

Washington.—Officials here say that the Government is powerless to check Japan's expansion in the Philippines and the western hemisphere. There is no way in which America can change conditions regarding immigration into the Philippines, it is asserted. It is believed that the Japanese question may become more serious now that Tokyo has announced its intention of sending emigrants to Manila on every steamer. It is generally expected here that pressure will be brought to bear on the State Department to use any influence it may have with Brazil and other South American countries to check the Japanese movement.

Important Bills Delayed.

Washington.—Apparently all prospects for legislation merely local went glimmering when the House Democratic caucus by almost unanimous vote decided not to enlarge the programme laid down at the beginning of the session. Hundreds of bills, among them the San Diego Exposition bill, the San Francisco Hetch-Hetchy bill and the bill granting certain rights of way for the Owens river aqueduct are tied up by the action of the caucus and must wait for the regular session before any action will be taken.

Better Consular Service Needed.

Philadelphia.—Politics was declared to be the most serious menace to future trade expansion of the country by Frank W. Crandall of St. Louis in his report to the annual convention of the Travelers' Protective Association of America. Crandall declares that the country's only hope of commercial supremacacy lay in building up an export trade in finished products, and to do this, he said, the country needed an efficient consular service.

Boys Pry Gold from Skull.

Reno.—Children attempting to tear the gold from the teeth of a body which had been unearthed in a deserted cemetery by workmen digging a trench was the startling discovery made. The lads had seen the bones lying beside the trench and a gleaming yellow metal tooth crown exposed to view had attracted them. They were busily engaged in prying out the gold when discovered.

Farmer Killed by Train.

San Luis Obispo.—Jackson Price, aged 70 years, while attempting to drive over the Pacific Coast railway tracks at Wares crossing near the town of Arroyo Grande, was run down by the northbound passenger train and killed.

Captain Bogardus Dead.

Springfield, Mo.—Captain C. A. Bo-gardus, for years world's champion rifle shot, died at the Springfield hospital from uraemic poisoning.

Trip Made From Stockton to Fresno by Steamboat

Fresno.—Steaming through water that had not been traversed in 42 years, the steamer J. R. McDonald, bound from Stockton to Fresno, came to anchor 20 miles northwest of Fresno, at the Skaggs bridge, where its journey upstream terminated.

There was much excitement over the fact that the remarkable river trip had been successfully completed and enthusiasm was high. Four 14-mule teams immediately began to carry the freight to Fresno. Local stores will have this freight on sale at a reduced rate, and special displays will be made.

After the arrival of the steamer speeches were made by T. J. Hammond and Henry Hawson of the navigation committee, both urging that the entire valley should co-operate to secure Government aid, now that the navigability of the river has been proved. Captain McMurtry of the steamer declares that there is no reason why boats a little smaller than the J. R. McDonald cannot run all the year round with very little river improvement.

"While the river has changed greatly since I came up last, it is no harder to navigate than formerly," said Captain

McMurtry.

Between Dos Palos and Firebaugh the San Joaquin has made a new channel since 1869. Captain McMurtry started to follow the old channel, but ran into trees and was forced to take the new channel. It is just wide enough for the boat to pass. It is believed that the sharp turns and narrow places can be eliminated and some of the more shallow places dredged out with practically no great expenditure and the river can be made as good as it ever was.

From Dos Palos the boat has passed through the best part of the river and has experienced no trouble. Not once since it left Stockton has it had any more trouble than would come to any ordinary river boat, according to Captain McMurtry.

"The river is about as crooked as any river you would expect to find," said F. M. Hill, manager of the Fresno Traffic Association. "On our way from Firebaugh we were constantly rounding bends. All were big bends which the boat turned with ease.

The barge Eastside, which was towed up by the McDonald, was rechristened the Fresno.

The Bodies of Maine's Dead Soon to be Recovered

Havana.—This week will witness the removal of the bodies buried for 13 years in the wreck of the battleship Maine.

Colonel Black and Captain Ferguson, in charge of the wreck, have been instructed immediately to pump sufficient water from the cofferdams to expose that part of the ship in which the bodies are supposed to lie.

Heavy rains in progress here for the past few days have greatly retarded the work. Pumps from the collier Leonidas have reinforced those already installed.

That the shattering of the hull is evidently far greater than supposed was revealed as a result of a superficial observation made possible by the lowering of the water level in the cofferdam a total depth of seven feet.

On account of this unforeseen revelation of the character of the explosion which sent the battleship to the bottom of the harbor, all plans heretofore proposed for dealing with the ultimate removal of the hulk have become merely conjectural until much more water has been pumped out. As the water recedes, every successive foot reveals worse and worse conditions in that portion of the hull forward of amidships which was subjected to the main force of the explosion.

Colonel Black of the engineer corps said that he had reasonable expectation of lowering the water a total depth of 18 to 20 feet within three or four days, which would render possible a fairly complete exploration of all portions of the ship where men were likely to have been on the night of the disaster, except the bow.

It is possible that the searchers may be able to enter the officers' quarters in the after structure within a day or so, where they may find the body of Ensign Merritt, the only officer missing, the body of Lieutenant Jenkins, the only officer killed, having been recovered from the torpedo chamber shortly after the explosion.

The majority of the men at work on the wreck believe that a second explosion followed the one that originally blew up the vessel. Whether the first explosion was due to a mine from without or a bomb placed within, they will be able to decide only when the entire ship is uncovered.

District Forester Sends Out Warnings Against Fires

San Francisco.—In order that a repetition of the disastrous forest fires of last year may be avoided, the district forester of the United States forest service at this city has issued a general warning to the public and asking the co-operation of every citizen to assist in preventing a recurrence of the appalling losses incurred.

Already two fires that might have proved disastrous have been reported to the service, one in Tulare county, the other in Siskiyou county. Thanks to the efficient energy of the protection force they were each controlled within half a section and the individual guilty of the carelessness apprehended. Hunters and campers are warned to be guided by a set of simple rules, the observance of which will reduce by half the record of last year, when 63 fires were directly attributable to carelessness of pleasure seekers in the forests. Failure to follow these directions is likely to subject the guilty to rigorous prosecutions. The rules are:

Be sure your match is out before you throw it away.

Knock out your pipe ashes or throw away your cigar or cigarette stump where there is nothing to catch fire.

Don't build a campfire any larger than is absolutely necessary. Never leave it, even for a short time without putting it out with water or dirt.

Don't build a campfire against a tree or a log. Build a small one where you can scrape away the needles, leaves or grass from all sides of it.

Don't build bonfires. The wind may come up at any time and start a fire you cannot control.

If you discover a fire get word of it to the nearest United States forest ranger or State fire warden just as quickly as you possibly can.

Many Women Workers Will Not be benefited by Law

Sacramento.—In an opinion handed down Attorney General Webb rules that the recently enacted eight-hour law for women wage workers in this State does not apply to stenographers or clerks in offices other than those of telephone, telegraph, express and transportation companies.

On the other hand he rules that the law's exemption of women engaged in the "harvesting, curing, canning or drying of any variety of perishable fruit or vegetable" does not apply to those handling other perishable goods, nor to those engaged in canneries who are engaged in labeling or other occupations accompanying the handling of fruits or vegetables after the same have ceased to be perishable.

The opinion was given in a communication to Commissioner John P. Mc-Laughlin of the Bureau of Labor Statistics in answer to inquiries made by him relative to the precise construction of the act, the title of which reads as follows:

"An act limiting the hours of labor of females employed in any manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishment, laundry, hotel or restaurant, or telephone or telegraph establishment or office, or by any express or transportation company."

The difficulty concerning the stenographers and office clerks arose over the absence of a comma [after the word "establishment"] following the word "telephone." The presence of the comma there would manifestly have made the law apply to all offices.

WIFE'S WAGES IS COMMUNITY MONEY WITH LAZY HUSBAND

Law Will Not Grant Divorce for Non-Support as long as She Works.

Los Angeles.—If a California wife is able to work and earn wages, she cannot obtain a divorce on the ground of non-support; on the contrary, the money that she earns is community property and belongs in part to the husband. Thus Superior Judge Monroe ruled in denying Maude Falham's application for a decree.

Mrs. Falham said that her husband had not contributed to her support in the last year. During that time she had earned a living by working in a cafe.

"And you have during part of this year lived with your husband?" the Court asked.

"Yes."

"Then you will have to show other cause for a decree. The law of California, a hardship though it may be, is that the minute the wife earns money it becomes community property.
Such money is as much her husband's as her own. Thus he, in law, supports her with what she herself earns and the claim of non-support fails."

Three Aviators Killed in One Day.

Paris.—Fifty aeroplanists took wing early Sunday morning from the aviation field at Vincennes on the first stage of the European race, which called for a flight to London and return with stops at various places going and returning. Almost immediately after the start two of the aviators, M. Le Martin and M. Lendron, met tragic deaths. Disaster overtook Captain Princtau almost immediately.
He was scarcely well into the air when one of the planes of his machine took fire. Princtau was seen struggling to undo a strap that bound him firmly in his seat, so as to be free to jump as he glided toward the earth. Before he could loosen the belt, however, the motor exploded and flaming benzine covered him. He did not utter a cry and when the wreckage fell to the ground the Captain was dead.

Nine Inch Pin in Baby.

Oakland.—Nine inches of hatpin was removed from the shoulder of 15-months-old Laberta Favio, where it had been imbedded for more than a month, the operation calling into use the X-ray machine, which located the pin. When the child was taking its first baby steps it fell upon a hat it had pulled down upon the floor. It screamed with pain and the tiny wound left by the pin was found on the shoulder, but nothing was thought of it.
The point of the pin had entered the top of the shoulder, barely missed the lung, and was lying pointing diagonally toward the spinal column. It was removed without much trouble.

Conditions Serious in Hayti.

Kingston, Jamaica.—Advises describe conditions in northern Hayti as serious. Fighting there has been desperate. The Government forces have been scattered and the rebels have things their own way. General Mont-plaisir, one of the Federal commanders, has taken refuge in a consulate.
Supporters of General Antenor Firmin, formerly Haytian Minister to Great Britain and leader of the revolt of 1902, are jubilant over the prospect of placing Firmin in the Presidential chair.

China Menace to Health.

Chicago.—China is a perpetual menace to the health of the world, according to Dr. M. R. Edwards head of the branch of the medical school of Harvard University. "Every ship which sails from a Chinese port is a possible carrier of cholera, bubonic plague and even leprosy to the outside world.
China has all the diseases of America and Europe and many others. Against them it has no adequate medical protection," Dr. Edwards said.

Crazy Women Uses Gun.

Walla Walla, Wash.—Entering an interurban car at Milton, Myrtle N. Kyle, a divorced woman, shot and killed Joe Harper, the conductor, and then shot and killed herself. Before dying Harper said he did not know the woman except as a passenger, and could assign no reason for the shooting. The woman was divorced a month ago and has since been packing fruit at Freewater, near Milton.

Crime Publication Bill Vetoed.

Springfield, Ill.—Governor Dineen vetoed the Church bill preventing the publication of crime news. The bill was so stringent that even the publication of such an event as the assassination of a President would have been illegal.

Bandits Get Saloon Crowd.

James White and nine patrons of his saloon one mile from here and secured $150 from the crowd.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

SYNDICATE LOAN TO CHINA ENDS ARCHAIC CURRENCY

Coin of the Flowery Kingdom Will Be Melted Into Suspender Buckles.

With recent signatures of the contract for the loan of $50,000,000 to China by American, British, German and French bankers, the death knell of the most hopelessly confused currency in the world was sounded. Foreigners residing in or doing business with China breathed a great sigh of relief, as the loan is to end a most vexatious obstacle to the transaction of business.

China agrees, as part of the contract, to install a currency system worthy of the name. Until the eighties of the last century China had no silver coinage. The copper, or more properly, the brass cash, was the only national coin. Silver was used in the lump by weight, the unit of weight being known to foreigners as the tael (an Indian term) and to the Chinese as the liang, the equal, roughly speaking, to one and one-third ounces avoirdupois.

The weight of the liang, however, and the fineness of the silver bullion varied in every city of the empire, and, to add to the confusion, Mexican and Spanish dollars were also in use in certain localities. About 1887 the Chinese provincial governments began to mint dollar pieces and there are some eight or ten varieties of these in circulation, all nominally of the value of a Mexican dollar, but in reality entirely lacking uniformity.

Added to these various dollars is that of the British crown colony, Hongkong, which is in use in a number of the ports. Several foreign banks doing business in China have issued paper notes, which have a limited circulation. Some of these are subject to discount if used outside the port of issue. All this has produced great confusion and burdened trade with endless charges for exchange, and the difficulties have been increased by the fluctuation in the gold value of the silver.

The American government has been consulting a number of times by China during recent years in regard to currency reform which would relieve the situation. In 1903 a treaty was signed in which China agreed to provide a uniform national coinage.

In 1904, at the request of China, Professor J. W. Jenks of Cornell University and a member of the Commission on International Exchange, was sent to Peking by the American government. Professor Jenks studied the monetary situation in China for eighteen months, and his recommendations were accepted.

However, after his return to the United States a change of sentiment appeared. Various substitute schemes were presented, but none adopted until last May, when an imperial edict appeared approving a plan.

The standard coin is to be of silver of the same weight and fineness as the Mexican dollar. The fractional pieces in silver will be the dime, the quarter and the half dollar, and the subsidiary coins in addition to these will be a nickel 5-cent piece, and in copper the 1-mill, 5-mill, 1-cent and 2-cent piece.

A Storm Signal.

For the first time in his life he was braving the perils of the sea, under the heavy handicap of high-strung nerves and a weak stomach. The old stagers in the smoking-room held him spell-bound with soul-stirring stories of shipwreck and hurricane. Suddenly a sailor dropped a heavy block upon the deck.

"What's that?" he cried, paling.

"The barometer falling," answered a wag.

"Lord help us!" he moaned, as he staggered away to his cabin.—Lippincott's.

TESTIMONY OF FINGER PRINT PROOF OF IDENTIFICATION.

Scientists and Criminologists About Reached the Fixed Conclusion.

The conviction of a New York burglar by the evidence of his finger prints in Judge Rosalky's court recently is a reminder that the old-time spectacular "properties" of the detective novel are being materialized as first aids to the enforcement of the law. The particular burglar had manufactured what appeared to be an impregnable alibi. It was in doubt whether the jury would convict on the evidence of his finger prints taken haphazard upon the sill of a window of the plundered dwelling.

But when he was confronted with a tell-tale duplicate of his finger markings, the burglar collapsed and confessed.

Scientists and criminologists have about reached the fixed conclusion that the finger print is infallible as a means of identification. It is claimed that out of more than 150,000 cases recorded, no two charts of prints exactly coincided. The microscope was generally necessary to reveal the distinction. But once placed under the lens, the photograph of the print showed an individuality much more unmistakable than the features of its owner.

How long it will take to educate juries up to an acceptance of the testimony of the finger print as conclusive proof of identification is another matter. To the layman the theory still appears as fantastic to a degree. But as proof of the finality of the system piles up, and as demonstration of its correctness becomes a matter of everyday occurrence, finger-print evidence may ultimately come to be a conventional resort of our thief catchers.—Atlanta Constitution.

Shortly after the return from their honeymoon a young couple of Cleveland undertook housekeeping, the bride being especially desirous to put into practice the lessons she had taken in cooking. Returning home one evening the husband found his wife in tears. Between sobs he managed to learn from her that something terrible had happened.

"Dearie," she gulped, "it does seem too awful that the very first meat pie I should bake for you should be eaten by the cat!"

"That's all right, my love," said the husband, patting her on the shoulder. "I'll get you another cat right away."—Harper's Weekly.

A stout old gentleman was having trouble with the telephone. He could hear nothing but a confused jumble of sounds, and finally he became so exasperated that he shouted into the transmitter:

Class Prophecy
ERWIN RIGHTER

About 1930 after having lived on Jupiter for about ten years I determined to look up my old school friends of Campbell Grammar.

So one morning I kissed my wife goodbye and started forth. I boarded a train and got the morning paper. This notice caught my eye. "Miss Catherine Cooper leaves for central region of Jupiter." Then the article said that this was her first experience in the missionary work but it was that that she would do well.

At the Interplanetary Navigation office I asked for the best aerial navigator they had. He brot in and introduced me to Andrew Huntley and soon we were on our way. Near the end of the second day I heard the hiss—of escaping oxygen. It was Andrew's tank of oxygen that was overflowing into the feedpipe.
Soon Andrew became hilarious and threatened to capsize the machine. When the feedpipe was regulated again we found we had strayed far out of our course. At the end of the third day we were once more in good heavy air.

"Well," Andrew said, "on account of the valve in the feedpipe bursting I can't get you to London, as I had planned, but I can get you to Campbell which is the next best place.

Most of the passengers readily agreed to this as Campbell was more fashionable than London. Soon we were put off at Campbell's station in Campbell. As I had been tired of riding in an airship I walked down Broadway to try to find a hotel. As I was walking along I heard a cry "Look out there," and as I looked I saw a man hurled thru the air. He fell in the way of an automobile. He jumped up quickly but there seemed no possible escape. Just as he was about to be run down he was jerked upward by a hook caught in the collar of his coat. I looked up and saw aeroplanes flying away with their burden. When he alighted he was quickly hailed away in aero ambulance.

"This cheers for Mr. Forbes," I heard and as he was above the mass of people I saw it was the same Miss Forbes of Campbell Grammar. I tried to get near enough to congratulate him but the crowd was so dense I could not. I now saw how Andrew and Bliss had mastered the art of aerial navigation so easily. It was because they were always up in the air in their classes.

Someone tapped me on the shoulder and I was confronted by a newspaper reporter. "Did you see the aerial rescue," he asked. "Yes," I said and I gave the details. "Pardon me," I said after I had finished giving him the story, "but your face looks familiar. May I ask your name?" "Leland Lancaster," he said. "How are you, old man, shake on it."

"Who was the man rescued and where did they take him?" I asked him.
"Why," said he, "that was the multimillionaire Ira Harris and he probably will be taken to the Emergency Hospital.
You know Winnie Bibb is head nurse there and so he will be in good hands."

"This is all new to me," I said, "for I just came from Jupiter to see my old school friends." "Well I must get back to my office," he said as he turned to go.
I passed on down Broadway till I came to the St. Mark Hotel. After supper that evening I went out for a walk. This electric sign caught my eye, "James Fab-linger, electrician." I walked in and asked to see James. I was told he was upstairs in his laboratory. I took the elevator up and knocked on the laboratory door. The door opened and James instantly recognized me. After we had talked awhile he said "Come into this room and I'll show you my x-ray. I have it fixed now so I can see and hear anybody on the earth anywhere and soon I believe I will be able to see people on the other planets."

"Are there any old school mates we can see thru the x-ray to-night?" I said.
"Yes," he said, "there's Myrtle Dunham, American premier actress."

He turned the x-ray upon the stage in the theater where he was playing. Soon the curtain rose and the play started.
When the heroine came in she was greeted with loud applause and a large number of bouquets were presented.
When the act was finished there was wild applause and many curtain calls.

"Any others," I asked when the play was finished. "No, not to-night, he said, "I can show you others in the daytime. Come around to-morrow." So I went back to the hotel. Picking up a paper I noticed this: "Miss Elva Pope captivates young Newport man." The article said. Miss Pope was the young man's music teacher. He did so well in music that she actually smiled on him.
Although he knew he would regret it afterwards, the young man was powerless to resist those smiles. So they were engaged. After scanning the paper for other interesting articles I retired.

The next morning I called an aero taxicab and rode to the electrician office.
"Now I'll show you my cowboy friend, Loyal Lancaster, you remember him, don't you?" "Sure," I replied. He turned the x-ray over the signboard at the ranch gate. It read like this: "Moss Rock Ranch, Cattle and Horses bot and sold. Broncho Breaking a specialty." Loyal Lancaster, Proprietor.

"Any others," I asked.

"Yes there is a race milking cow today in London and I think we can see it right now," said James as he focused the machine for London.

Looking thru the machine we saw the final contest between four young men each seated by a cow. Before long one had won the race and amid the yelling through he was carried to a platform and everybody yelled: "Speech! Speech!
Kennedy! Kennedy! Kennedy!" and sure enough it was Cecil Kennedy of Campbell Grammar.

When they had quieted down he said,
"Now you've got me up here what do you want me to say?" "Tell us how you got the experience," yelled one.
"To tell you frankly," said Cecil, "I got the experience milking cows a long time ago."

agoneer Campbell, the Western Metropolis, where I had a small milk route. I think that's all there is to tell."

Then the cheering was so loud that James hastily turned off the instrument.
"All that noise will break my delicate machine," he said.

I had been so interested in watching this I forgot to inquire about Leland Brown. "I always thought that Leland Brown would be in partnership with Loyal Lancaster," I said. "Do you know where he is?" "No," "there's one I don't know, but I think he is somewhere in Campbell. You watch the sign-boards when you go to your hotel."

As I went back to my hotel I watched every signboard but I did not see his name. At the hotel I looked in the directory and found his office on 616 S.
72nd St. I walked down 72nd St. till I saw his sign, "Dr. Leland Brown."

After I entered I was ushered into the presence of the assistant doctor. "Isn't Dr. Brown in?" I asked. "Dr. Brown is in Europe and he won't be back for about two months," the assistant answered. "I just wished to see Dr.
Brown," I said as I went out.

As I went down the street I heard the cry, "there goes Prof. Graves." I looked up and saw an elegant aero car whiz by.
"How do you know that's Prof. Graves," I asked of a passerby. "I know that is he because of his white hair, his elegant aero car and by the speed that he drives, which is terrific," the man answered.

I looked up again to see him but he was gone. As I looked all around me I saw this big aerial sign. "Big Suffer-agette Meeting Sufferagette Hall, 72 Story Rawley Building. Miss Gladys Bryan, Miss Bernice Lloyd and other prominent sufferagettes will speak." I passed on to the hotel and picked up a newspaper, "Daring Aerial Robbery in Mid Air over the Atlantic" in head lines greeted my eyes. I looked over the rest of the paper for news concerning my classmates. I was about to throw away the paper when I saw "Nanette Ellison, young poetess is soon to wed English hobnobman."

After finding that classmate I consulted my notebook for the rest of them. There were three Asa Harris, Fay Billings and Luella Thompson. "Well," I thought, "if anybody knows James does." So I went to ask him.

I entered his laboratory he jumped up and widely flourishing a newspaper yelled, "What do you know about that for luck. Read that."

I looked at the paper and saw "Daring Aerial Robbery in Mid Air over the Atlantic." "I've seen this before," I said.
"Go ahead, you haven't got to the point yet." I read on, "There were three robbers and they had a Brent racing aero-plane. Detective Asa Harris will have charge of the case." "That's all you want to know," James broke in with, "I have something else I want to show you.
I just discovered it. Here look thru the machine." I looked and saw a four roomed, flat roofed house. On top of the house was a roof garden covered over with glass. There was a large yard in back of the small house and a high brick wall surrounding it. "Do you know what that institution is," James asked. "No, I don't," I answered, "and I couldn't guess." "You're right," he said "You couldn't guess. I'll tell you what that place is, it's Miss Luella Thompson's Private Asylum for hopelessly insane cats."

To say that I was surprised would put the situation very mildly.

When I recovered James said with a smile, "You haven't seen Miss Billings.
You know she keeps a select school for girls out on 142 St. I'll call you an aero taxi. So I went flying over Campbell to the school. I was just about to enter when a man addressed me. "Are you going in there?" he asked. "I had thought of it," I answered. "I would advise you not to in there because I have seen more than one man come out of that door by way of the broom," he said.

Just then my attention was attracted by an aeroplane lighting heavily on the ground about 3 or 4 blocks down the street. I hurried to the disabled aero-plane where a crowd had already gathered.
I noticed the aeroplane was of the interplanetary type. The aviator turned and addressed the crowd. "There's something the matter with one of my engines. If there is a mechanic here that will help me, I'll give him a free ride to Jupiter."

I stepped forward and said that I would help him. We soon fixed the machine and started the engines. Slowly we rose and I bid good-bye to Campbell and the Earth for I was going to Jupiter my
"Home Sweet Home."
